When you need to meet PCI compliance, turn to McAfee

The payment card industry developed the Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard (PCI DSS) in response to the overwhelming number of credit card data thefts by hackers.

All organizations that capture, process, or store credit card data must demonstrate proof of compliance. The McAfee PCI Certification Service provides step-by-step guidance and real time analysis of your compliance status, so that you can successfully navigate and complete the PCI DSS requirements.

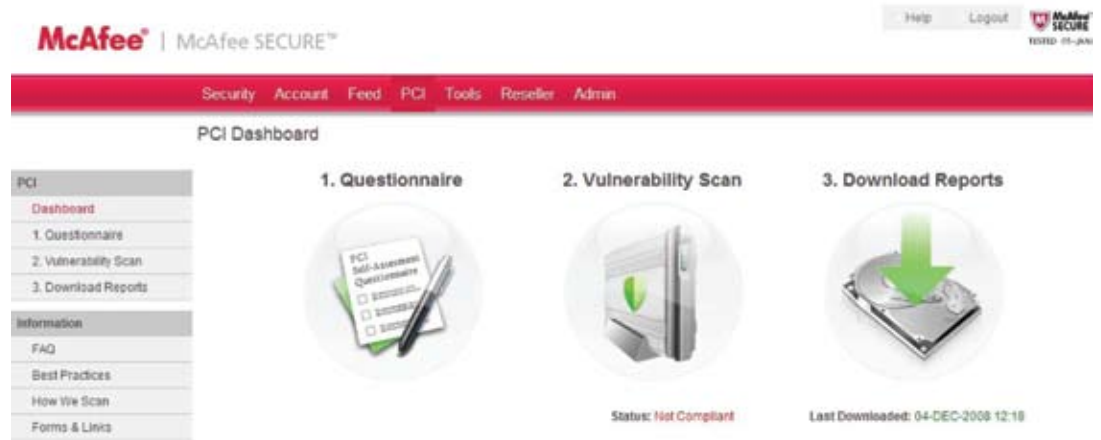

Affordable and reliable PCI compliance

Working directly with Visa International, we developed an accurate and easy-to-use service that makes PCI compliance more affordable and more reliable for organizations of all sizes. Merchants can quickly complete all requirements with confidence. Complete your self-assessment questionnaire (SAQ), automatically initiate on demand scans for vulnerabilities and even generate the necessary PCI compliance reports and documentation. Should you have any questions or require help completing any of the PCI requirements, you'll have access to the customer support resources and certified security professionals of McAfee Technical Assist (telephone and email support provided 7am-7pm PST).

Cost-effective and reliable

While we expressly designed our full-service PCI Certification Service for organizations with less than six million payment card transactions per year (PCI Levels 2, 3, and 4), we also help larger organizations meet their PCI obligations (including conducting Level 1 on-site audits) through McAfee Foundstone Services.

How well does McAfee's PCI Certification Service work? McAfee currently operates co-branded PCI compliance programs through partners such as PayPal and the U.S. Council of Better Business Bureaus, to manage the enrollment of more than 250,000 merchants and third-party service providers worldwide. Tens of thousands of organizations around the world—from government agencies and online retailers, to nonprofits and manufacturers—trust us to audit their initial and ongoing PCI compliance status.
